What is Permaculture?

Permaculture is a design science using an innovative, whole-systems approach to creating resilient agro-ecosystems and thriving communities. These easily learned, practical design methodologies will enhance your strategies for meeting nutritional needs, environmental health, economic viability, and social cohesion.

What is a PDC?

Our Permaculture Design Certificate Course (PDC) material was originally developed by the co-founders of permaculture, to teach the principles and foundations of sustainable design. All PDC courses offered throughout the world must follow the same format to ensure that the integrity of the certification process is upheld.

The course provides over 100 hours of direct contact with instructors, in addition to group design time, homework assignments, self-study time, hands-on projects, visits to demonstration sites, learning activities and a participant-led design project.

Feedback from PDC 2014-2015 Participants

Merci à toute l'équipe du PDC pour votre engagement inspirant et votre dévouement à ce projet étonnant... qui contribue à concevoir des cultures, des lieux de vie autosuffisants et respectueux de l'environnement et des êtres vivants.

Connecter avec des personnes avec qui on partage les mêmes valeurs et avec lesquelles on entreprend un projet est quelque chose de puissant. Une excellente formation qui donne des outils pratiques pour mettre la permaculture en pratique à toutes les échelles, et une expérience humaine et sociale vraiment enrichissante!

CELL PDC is changing the world one step at a time! Big thanks for the knowledge, the inspiration and the fun times, keep it up, dream team!
